TELLS OF BRIBES

A Get-Rich-Quick Operator Implicates Others in His Many Past Schemes.

IT PAID VERY WELL

Claims To Have Given Very Large Sums for Good Reports of His Business.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)
Cincinnati, O., Oct. 15.—The trial of Daniel V. Miller and Joseph M. Johns, charged with conspiracy and bribery in connection with the post-office scandals, developed several sensational scenes in court.

John J. Ryan, the get-rich-quick operator, who is chief witness for the prosecution, was compelled to admit on the stand that he had been tried for murder, and was severely questioned as to alleged fraudulent checks and other transactions.

During his testimony he said that while he was operating his turf betting concerns he had received over a million dollars by mail and had over $200,000 on hand when the postal inspectors closed his business.

The prosecution introduced stenographers who read the verbatim reports of conversations between the defendants in the case and others.

Tells of Deals.

Ryan then testified that Johns told him favorably Miller had been impressed with the witness in Washington, that Miller's salary of only $2,000 was small there, and that both needed money. Ryan claimed to have made two contracts with Johns at the Elbeek hotel in Terre Haute, one for $2,500 for a favorable decision and the other for $2,000 for revising circulars and other advertising so it would pass through the mails. Ryan testified that Johns insisted that "the amounts would be small when divided."

Ryan then went on to testify to all his transactions with Johns as the middle man up to the time last December when Johns came to Cincinnati and they met alone in a room at the Gibson house, where Ryan gave Johns $1,000 in cash and $3,400 in two checks.

Ryan continued his story about subsequent transactions in which he said Johns wanted more funds right along until the witness finally made a statement of the whole matter to the post-office inspectors and made no further efforts to get bets on the races through the mails.

STATUE UNVEILED

Nation Honors General Sherman's Memory—Impressive Scene in Washington Today—President Roosevelt Makes Telling Address to the Veterans.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)
Washington, Oct. 15.—Amid the applause of thousands of old veterans the statue erected in honor to the memory of General William Tecumseh Sherman was unveiled here today. Master William Tecumseh Thordyke, a grandson of the famous general drew aside the great flags which covered the statue just as the Marine band struck up and a salute was fired by the artillery present. It was a most impressive sight and the ceremony was closed by an address by President Roosevelt.

The Arrangement
The east and west stands were decorated in red and blue representing the two wings of Sherman's army. One of the stands was occupied by veterans of the army of the Ohio and Potomac and the others by the soldiers of the army of the Tennessee and Cumberland. The president and invited guests occupied the north stand which was draped in white representing the White House. The statue itself was draped in two immense American flags.

Roosevelt's Speech
Today we meet together to do honor to the memory of one of the great men, whom in the hour of her agony, our nation brought forth for her preservation. The civil war was not only in the importance of the issues at stake and of the outcome the greatest of modern times, but it was also, taking into account its duration, the severity of the fighting, and the size of the armies engaged, the greatest since the close of the Napoleonic struggles. Among the generals who rose to high position as leaders of the various armies in the field are many who will be remembered in history as long as this history itself is remembered. Sheridan, the incarnation of fiery energy and prowess; Thomas, far sighted, cool-headed, whose steadfast courage burned ever highest in the supreme moment of the crisis; McClellan, with his extraordinary gift for organization; Meade, victor in one of the decisive battles of all time; Hancock, type of the true fighting man among the regulars; Logan, type of the true fighting man among the volunteers—the names of these and of many others will endure so long as our people hold sacred the memory of the fight for union and for liberty. High among these chiefs rise the Lieutenant, Sherman, whose statue figures of Grant and of Grant's great here in the national capital is today to be unveiled. It is not necessary here to go over the long roll of Sherman's mighty feats. They are written large throughout the history of the civil war. Our memories would be poor indeed if we did not recall them now, as we look along Pennsylvania avenue and think of the great triumphal march which surged down its length when at the close of the war the victorious armies of the east and of the west met here in the capital of the nation they had saved.

Fit Tribute
There is a peculiar fitness in commemorating the great deeds of the soldiers who preserved this nation, by suitable monuments at the national capital. I trust we shall soon have a proper statue of Abraham Lincoln, to whom more than to any other man this nation owes its salvation. Meanwhile, on behalf of the people of the nation, I wish to congratulate all of you who have been instrumental in securing the erection of this statue to General Sherman.

The living can best show their respect for the memory of the great dead by the way in which they take to heart and act upon the lessons taught by the lives which made these dead men great. Our homage today to the memory of Sherman comes from the depths of our being. We would be unworthy citizens did we not feel profound gratitude toward him, and those like him and under him who, when the country called in her dire need, sprang forward with such gallant eagerness to answer that call. Their blood and their oil, their endurance and patriotism, have made us and all who come after us forever their debtors. They left us not merely a reunited but a country incalculably greater because of its rich heritage in the deeds which thus left it reunited.

As a nation we are the greater, not only for the valor and devotion to duty displayed by the men in blue, who won in the great struggle for the Union, but also for the valor and the loyalty toward what they regarded as right of the men in gray; for this war, three fortunate above all other recent wars in its outcome, left to all of us the right of brotherhood alike with valiant victor and valiant vanquished.

Our Homage
Moreover, our homage must not only find expression on our lips; it must also show itself forth in our deeds. It is a great and glorious thing for a nation to be stirred to present triumph by the splendid memories of triumphs in the past. But it is a shameful thing for a nation, if these memories stir it only to empty boastsings, to a pride that does not shrink from present abasement, to that self-satisfaction which accepts the high resolve and bending effort of the father as an excuse for effortless ease or wrongly directed effort in the son. We of the present, if we are true to the past, must show by our lives that we have learned aright the lessons taught by the men who did the mighty deeds of the past. We must have in us the spirit which made the men of the civil war what they were; the spirit which produced leaders such as Sherman; the spirit which gave to the average soldier the grim tenacity and resourcefulness that made the armies of Grant and Sherman as formidable fighting machines as this world has ever seen. We need their ruggedness of body, their keen and vigorous minds, and above all their dominant quality: of forceful character. Their lives teach us in our own lives to strive after not the thing which is merely pleasant, but the thing which it is our duty to do. The life of duty, not the life of mere ease or mere pleasure—that is the kind of life which makes the great man as it makes the great nation.

The Old Soldier
We can afford to lose the virtues which made the men of '61 to '65 great in war. No man is warranted in feeling pride in the deeds of the Army and Navy of the past if he does not back up the Army and the Navy of the present. I we are far-sighted in our patriotism, there will be no let up in the work of building and of keeping at the highest point of efficiency, a navy suited to the part of the United States must hereafter play in the world, and of making and keeping our small Regular Army, which in the event of a great war can never be anything but the nucleus around which our volunteer armies must form themselves, the best army of its size to be found among the nations.

Our Honor
So much for our duties in keeping unstained the honor roll our fathers made in war. It is of even more instant need that we should show their spirit of patriotism in the affairs of peace. The duties of peace are with us always; those of war are but occasional; and with a nation as with a man, the worthiness of life depend upon the way in which the every day duties are done. The home duties are the vital duties. The nation is nothing but the aggregate of the families within its border; and if the average man is not hard working, just, and fearless in his dealings with those about him, then our average of public life will in the end be low; for the stream can rise no higher than its source. But in addition we need to remember that a peculiar responsibility rests upon the man in public life. We meet in the capital of the nation, in the city which owes its existence to the fact that it is the seat of the National Government. It is well for us in this place, and at this time, to remember that exactly as there are certain homely qualities the lack of which will prevent the most brilliant man alive from being a useful soldier to his country, so there are certain homely qualities for the lack of which in the public servant no shrewdness or ability can atone. The greatest leaders, whether in war or in peace, must of course show a peculiar quality of genius; but the most redoubtable armies that have ever existed have been redoubtable because the average soldier, the average officer, possessed to a high degree such comparatively simple qualities as loyalty, courage and hardihood. And so the most successful governments are those in which the average public servant possesses that variety of loyalty which we call patriotism, together with common sense and honesty.

No Dishonest Man
We can as little afford to tolerate a dishonest man in the public service as a coward in the Army. The murderer takes a single life; the corruptor takes a public life, whether he be bribe giver or bribe taker, strikes at the heart of the commonwealth. In every public service, as in every army, there will be wrongdoers, there will occur misdeeds. This cannot be avoided; but vigilant watch must be kept, and as soon as discovered the wrongdoers must be stopped and the wrongdoers punished. Remember that in popular government we must rely on the people themselves, alike for the punishment and the reformation. Those upon whom our institutions cast the initial duty of bringing malefactors to the bar of justice must be diligent in its discharge; yet in the last resort the success of their efforts to purge the public service of corruption must depend upon the attitude of the courts and of the juries drawn from the people. Leadership is of availing so far as there is wise and resolute public sentiment behind it.

Ourselves Alone
In the long run, when it depends upon ourselves, upon us the people as a whole, whether this government is or is not to stand in the future as it has stood in the past; and my faith that it will show no falling off is based upon my faith in the character of our average citizenship. The one supreme duty is to try to keep this average high. To this end it is well to keep alive the memory of those men who are fit to serve as examples of what is loftiest and best in American citizenship. Such a man was General Sherman. To very few in any generation is it given to render such services as he rendered.

MRS. FIFIELD IS IN POSSESSION

SUDDEN ENDING OF THE GOODWIN HOUSE SUIT.

A SETTLEMENT IS NOW MADE

Bank Surrenders Option—Pays Cost and Moves Out by April 30 Next.

After two years in the courts the case of Helen Fifield et al versus the Hyde and Brittan bank et al, of Beloit, came to a sudden end late last night by a settlement between the parties to the suit. The case has been in the courts for some time past and the settlement comes as a surprise to many.

Gains Possession
By the terms of the settlement Mrs. Helen Fifield gains possession of the Goodwin house and the Hyde and Brittan bank agree to vacate the premises by the 30th of April next. They also agree to pay the $500 costs and also pay rent for the time they have claimed the hotel under their option. They also agreed to pay an increase to stay in the hotel until next May.

Costs Much
The suit has cost considerable money on both sides and in Beloit it is estimated that it has cost the bank between eight and ten thousand dollars to carry on their unsuccessful action. It is a decided victory for Mrs. Fifield and her attorneys, Fethers, Jeffris and Mount, and the compromise was made last night after the introduction of letters from bank officials a week previous to the securing of the option offering to add Mrs. Fifield in reaching an agreement with the hotel company who wished to purchase the property. The Hyde and Brittan bank was represented by Burr Jones of Madison and E. D. McGowan of Jamesville.

World on Cold Basis.
Prof. Bradshaw asserts positively that Mr. Bryan made the following statement:

"While I still believe that free silver would be a good thing for our country, the nations of the world have settled down to a gold basis to such an extent that it would be practically impossible to change the current of their ways so far as substituting the double for the gold standard is concerned. I think that free silver will not be considered at the national Democratic convention in 1904, and, moreover, I believe it will never again be an issue."

RUSSIA'S CZAR
TAKES AUTO TRIP

Prince Henry Goes with Him to Girlhood Home of the Czarine.

Berlin, Oct. 15.—The czar and czarina and their little daughters, the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess Sergius, Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia and the grand duke of Hesse left the castle at Darmstadt yesterday in automobile for Wolfsgarten castle, where they will remain as a house party for ten days. Wolfsgarten is scarcely more than a small country house and is greatly overcrowded, but it is where the czar and czarina and their little daughters spent their girlhood. The doors still show the flowers painted on them by the czarina.

Most of the members of the czar's official suite remain at Darmstadt. Two or three of them will go to Wolfsgarten mornings and afternoons with papers and dispatches from St. Petersburg.

The czar and czarina after leaving Wolfsgarten will return to Darmstadt for a month.

FREE SILVER

Question Is Not Likely To Come Before the Next Democratic Convention.

BRYAN TALKS IT

He is Still Very Loyal to the Cause That He Fathered Eight Years Ago.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)
Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 15.—"I think that free silver will not be considered at the national Democratic convention in 1904."

These words were spoken by William Jennings Bryan to an old and intimate friend, Prof. James W. Bradshaw, of this city.

Prof. Bradshaw of the Iowa Commercial college met Mr. Bryan on the train, while both were journeying westward, one to his home in this city, the other to Lincoln, Neb. They talked together for some time, the former presidential candidate discussing politics and political issues freely.

World on Cold Basis.

TURKEY GRANTS
AN AMNESTY NOW

Macedonians Will Return, and Reserve Troops Are Disbanded with Pay.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 15.—After correspondence with the Macedonian refugees through the Bulgarian government the sultan has promised a general amnesty and funds in aid of rebuilding their homesteads if the fugitives return to Macedonia. The refugees have consented on condition of their repatriation being under foreign control. The authorities in Roumelia are now estimating the amount necessary to carry out the arrangement.

This news has made a favorable impression here. The government has decided to dismiss several classes of reserves as soon as the ports begin to fulfill his promises. Salonica, European Turkey, Oct. 14.—Orders have been received here to disband certain classes of reserves.

DIAMOND PRICES
ARE NOW RAISED

Selling Agent of the De Beers Company Controls the Market.

London, Oct. 15.—The diamond selling syndicate of the De Beers company of South Africa has advanced the price on all small rough stones 5 per cent and the price of the larger rough diamonds 10 per cent. The syndicate handles the entire output of the De Beers company, which produces it is said about 95 per cent of the total output of the world.

The advance is the third since February, and diamonds were then selling higher than they have been at any time since the consolidation of the south African mines in the '70's.

The reasons given for the advance are manifold, but the general opinion seems to be that the output of the Kimberly field is decreasing.

STRIKE RIOTS IN FRANCE CONTINUE

French Weavers Throw Stones, But Are Dispersed by the Militia.

Armentieres, Oct. 15.—The strike riots continued today when a crowd numbering thousands started to stone the buildings and persons obnoxious to it. Gendarmes, supported by cavalry, charged the rioters and injured a number of persons more or less seriously. Two priests of St. Charles' church were assaulted and a lieutenant of the Fourth Cuirassiers was wounded. A general panic prevails. The streets have been barricaded anew and a large military force is assembling.

The carrying capacity of the average German freight car is ten to fifteen tons. Cars of double that capacity are to be tested.

WAS PUNISHED FOR SMOKING

MISSING FOUR MONTHS NOW

Had Been Living with Mr. and Mrs. William Peters, at No 10 Chatham Street.

Johnnie Templeton, a thirteen year old boy who had been living with his aunt, Mrs. William Peters, at number 10 Chatham street, left his home four months ago and has not been heard from since that time. The residence was visited this morning but no one was at home.

Was Caught Smoking. Neighbors said that the boy came to live with Mr. and Mrs. Peters after the second marriage of the latter's sister. It was thought that the mother paid for the boy's board for a time and then allowed him to earn it. His disappearance is attributed by neighbors to punishment he received from Mr. Peters on being caught in the act of smoking a cigarette.

Was Bright Lad. The boy is said to be a bright little fellow and several times expressed a desire to become a farmer. It is quite likely that he has secured employment on some farm. When last seen he was starting for school and the last thing he did was to kiss his aunt good-bye. Mrs. Peters is distracted over the affair. Neighbors say, however, that the boy will get along all right wherever he may be.

MAY RUN THE STATE FAIR

Pollock Suggested As a Candidate for Secretary's Office. When the state fair management is reorganized as the campaign now in progress indicates that it will be, a Rock county man may be chosen to fill the secretaryship in place of John M. True, who has held the position for a number of years. The man in question is David H. Pollock, who for three years was secretary of the Beloit Interstate Fair association. Lately Mr. Pollock announced that he would not again be candidate for that position. In the Interstate Fair association and his name was suggested among several other possible candidates for the state fair office. Mr. Pollock was called upon this year to assist Mr. True in the fair recently held and this shows that he is well thought of by the board of agriculture. Many believe that a new management would go a great way towards making a success of next year's fair.

GAVE CHARMING RECEPTION

The Carle Home Tately Decorated Yesterday for Delightful Function.

Miss Josephine Carle entertained at her home on St. Lawrence Place from four to six yesterday afternoon and the occasion was the largest and most elaborate society gathering that has been held this season. The rooms were transformed with a profusion of palms, cut flowers and ferns and Smith's orchestra furnished attractive music. Those who assisted Miss Carle in receiving were Mesdames N. L. Carle, Geo. M. McKee, H. G. Carter, J. G. Rexford, Heller and O. G. Fether; and the Mesdames Alice Rucker, Mae Valentine, Racine Bostwick, Elizabeth Schieker and Mabel Shumway.

JANESVILLE IS A GOOD MARKET

Produce Sells Well in This City—Commission Men Very Busy.

Janesville is a good market for things to eat, said one of the leading grocers and provision men lately. All summer long, in the early mornings, dozens of wagons loaded with farm and garden produce have come into town each day and the wares are usually disposed of while the morning is yet young.

The contents of the wagons have been left at the various stores and provision places, and some have been disposed of to the few men who make daily trips to the homes in certain localities where they have a regular trade. The liveliest place in the city in the early morning hours is at Hanley Bros.' commission store—"Commission Row," for Janesville. Here the local dealers get their supply of fresh fruits, some vegetables and the other produce usually handled by commission men.

The amount of money paid out during the fruit and vegetable season is enormous and the sum paid out this year for the purpose would be difficult to estimate. At this time of the year the fruit and vegetable corners in the stores are being made smaller, and in the place of the benches of radishes, carrots, berries, and other table delicacies sold in summertime are found pumpkins and squash. Pumpkins are taking the place of the fruits as pie material, and there are few who would not take a slice of good pumpkin pie in preference to any other kind, so this change, anyway, is welcome. Squashes are also liked by some when served in this way and many people have difficulty in discerning the difference, when the vegetable is nicely served between two brown crusts—when the latter do not resemble lead or leather.

FRESHIES CHANGE CLASS COLORS

Red and Gold Will Now Represent Youngest Class in the High School.

At the last meeting of the freshman class of the high school, the colors which had been picked out earlier in the month were turned down after a stormy discussion. The gathering, which occurred Tuesday afternoon was a special one held at the request of the majority of the class, as a petition had been circulated by a number of pupils who were dissatisfied with the colors chosen at the previous meeting. These were navy blue and white and were formally voted upon at the earlier session. As not many of the class were present at that time, it was decided to put the matter to a vote again. This time the red and gold were voted down and red and gold selected to represent the freshmen. The class yell was also chosen and is as follows: "Janesville, Janesville, Janesville town, 1-9-0-3; The Best All Around."

MAKING REPORT ON THE CROPS

Last Law of the Legislature Is Now Being Fulfilled to the Letter.

John M. True, secretary of the state board of agriculture, is compiling returns of acreage and yields of crops in Wisconsin for the season now closing, in accordance with a new law passed by the last legislature. The compilations are made from statements filed by the county clerks.

The secretary has received two statements from almost every county of the state, the one showing the acreage of the various crops, the number of apple trees, number and value of the various farm animals, and the other showing the number of bushels or tons of the various products. The secretary is engaged in tabulating the returns for publication.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR RANKIN

Englewood Youth Sentenced at La Porte for Koonman Murder.

La Porte, Ind., Oct. 15.—Nathan Rankin, the last of the three men implicated in the killing of John Koonman, the South Bend grocer who was murdered because he offered resistance to the looting of his store, was found guilty of murder in the second degree and on this verdict Judge Richter imposed a life sentence and the prisoner was taken to the northern prison. Rankin's parents live in Chicago and the murderer is a graduate of the Englewood high school.

MANY HAVE BEEN SHORN

CHICAGO COLLECTION AGENCY FINDS LAMBS IN JANESVILLE.

TEN PER CENT COMMISSION

Was To Be Charged, and First Ten Dollars Retained as "Membership Fee."

A Chicago collection agency has had considerable business with a number of Janesville citizens in and out of court of late. Almost invariably the business was started in court but when the business man saw what he was up against he has been willing to settle out of court. The scheme savors of gold-brickism and those who have been caught are keeping very quiet.

An Alluring Offer. The offer made by the company was about as follows: It agreed to collect from the delinquent debtors for ten per cent. commission, provided, however, that the first $10 collected should be retained by the "league" as a life membership fee. A clause in the contract with the subscriber also provided that within a certain number of days said subscriber should send in to the "league" a certain number of names of delinquents and their ratings.

Clause Overlooked. The subscriber was never reminded of the clause in question. It seems to have been the hope of the league that he should overlook it. Because there was still another clause in the contract that provided that in event of his failure to comply with his agreements to send in the stated number of ratings, he should be liable for the $10 membership fee, whether the firm had collected anything or not.

Something for Nothing. At the end of the allotted time for sending in the ratings the "league" proceeded to put the matter in the hands of a lawyer. When the unwary subscriber was summoned to appear in justice court he invariably stated that he had forgotten about the ratings and asked for an extension of time. When this was refused, with the curt statement that the firm wasn't doing business that way, he wanted to fight. Then he consulted a lawyer, read the contract over again, and decided to pay and keep still. A dozen or more of such cases have come up within the past few weeks.

Had Alternative. When the subscriber sent in the required number of ratings, much to the disappointment of the firm, real, disagreeable toll had to be done. The league proceeded to actually collect as much as $10, which they pocketed as per agreement. After that the collectors lost interest in that particular subscriber and turned their attention to new fields. The concern got out one rate-book and then sent separate slips or pasters from time to time when a delinquent paid up.

AFTER MANY LAW VIOLATORS

J. A. Emery Is After All Who Would Evade the Law by Any Means.

252 hunters have been cornered by the eagle-eyed game wardens from January 1st, 1903 to September 30th. This number of convictions is in the fish and game warden's department and the fines for the time mentioned amounted to $2,924.50. Money derived from the sale of the fish and animals seized as above stated, reaches the nice sum of $2,191.43, so that the total revenue deposited in the state treasury secured by the process of the thirty wardens comes to $5,115.93. For the month of September alone twenty-two convictions are recorded, $325 collected in fines and $161.01 collected and deposited in the treasury from game and fish sold which had been seized.

Yesterday in the Capital City a meeting of state inspectors was called by J. A. Emery for the purpose of determining the best means of prosecuting the violators of the dairy and food laws of the state. At this gathering there were present, Food Inspector M. F. Field, of Milwaukee; F. M. Buzzell, of Chippewa Falls; Creamery Inspector J. G. More, of Albion, and Dr. Fisher.

SPEAKS WELL OF GOLF CLUB

Rockford Paper Praises Equipment at Sinissippi Links—New Lawn Mower.

The big lawn-mower to be used at the Sinissippi club has arrived from Rockford where it was manufactured by the Emerson Manufacturing company. In commenting upon the shipment of the mower, the Rockford Star speaks of the links at Janesville, and says that the Sinissippi club is up-to-date in every respect and has now all the implements necessary for the maintenance of the grounds in the finest condition and says further that the outfit is the equal of any at the largest and finest links in the country.

WILL HOLD DANCE VERY SHORTLY

Kemper Hall Association Plan To Have a Dancing Party in a Few Weeks.

For the purpose of raising funds for Kemper hall at Kenosha the Kemper hall association are planning for a dance to be given in the near future. While definite arrangements have not yet been made, the suggestion has met with much favor among the members of the club and the party is an assured event.

The Kemper hall association whose membership is made up of old Kemper hall scholars and graduates is becoming well known in this city and much interest is being taken in the organization to by former students at the celebrated Kenosha school. The present members of the club are: Mesdames J. L. Bostwick, H. V. Allen, N. L. Carle; Misses Josephine Carle, Grace Valentine, Vera Wilcox, Mae Valentine, Emma Winans.

HARRY KENT WAS SEVERELY HURT

Had His Jaw Broken in a Football Game at Carroll College.

As a result of an unlucky tackle in a football game held on the grounds of Carroll college, Waukesha, Wednesday, Harry C. Kent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Kent, was brought home late yesterday afternoon with his jaw bone fractured, and in a generally battered condition. On his arrival here Dr. W. H. Palmer was called and the jaw was set a second time. He will be kept from school for several weeks as a consequence of the game.

During the progress of one of the plays, Kent was thrown heavily to the ground and before he could rise was kicked in the jaw by the player whom he tackled. As soon as the extent of his hurts were known, a doctor was called who cared for the injured player.

PAID GOOD PRICE FOR LOT

Guernsey Real Estate on South Third Street Sold.

The property formerly owned by A. F. Hall of this city known as the Guernsey lot situated on South Third street, near South Third street, has been sold. Contractor John P. Cullen bought the real estate for the sum of $1250. Several lots in the Forest Park section have been sold lately and other transfers in the Third ward have taken place showing an increasing demand for land and improved property in this part of the city.

MASONS ENJOY A SUPPER

Eat and Dance at Their Hall Last Evening—Jolly Time.

A pleasant dance was held at Masonic quarters last evening which followed a supper given by the wives of the members. A large crowd was present and all experienced an enjoyable time.

HOTELS CROWDED: BUSINESS GOOD

Many Commercial Travelers Visit Janesville This Month—Trade Increasing.

October is starting to be one of the biggest months in the year in the hotel business and Janesville landlords are wondering when the crowds are going to stop coming. The figures for last month showed about the largest September business that has been done in the hotel line in this city for some years.

Big Business. For the last month the Park and Grand hotel show a greater registration list each day than have been recorded for a long time. The increase has been noticeable this month and so far business is way ahead of that of last year.

Told All About It. The cool weather drove all the men inside the other evening, and the guests who had no work to do gathered around in groups in the lobby of one of the Janesville hostels, told stories, talked politics and enjoyed their cigars. Several were from Chicago and there was quite a discussion of state politics at one time during the evening. There was a general feeling that the fight for the governorship lay between Yates and Col. Lowden. A number of Badger state men were having it out about La Follette and the game wardens at the same time too.

WILL USE THE CUNNING FERRET

EVERY MEANS WILL BE TRIED TO KILL RATS.

ARE DELAYED BY THE LAW

Myers Estate Can Not Begin Work of Repairs Until They Obtain Hotel Keys.

As soon as the Myers estate can secure possession of the keys of the Myers house the rats and other vermin which have so long made the hotel their resting place will be driven out and either killed or forced to seek shelter in some other locality. Ferrets, insect poison and every means known to human minds will be used to drive the rodents from their warm resting place.

When the rats are at last driven out all the holes will be stopped up and they will not be allowed entrance into the hotel again. The insects will also be exterminated by a liberal use of well known insect poison. The ferrets would have been put at work today but for the fact the doors are locked and the keys in the possession of the late landlord, Johnson, who refuses to give them up, on advice of his attorney, until certain legal matters have been settled.

BURGLARS DYNAMITE SAFE OF ILLINOIS BANK

Secure $2,688 in Cash and Hold Citizens at Bay While They Escape With the Loot.

Monmouth, Ill., Oct. 15.—The vault of Farmers' State bank at Herwick, a little village twelve miles northeast of this city, was dynamited at an early hour in the morning and $2,688 in cash secured. It was the total deposit left in the bank safe with the exception of $40 in pennies.

The robbery took place at a little after 3 in the morning. The first explosion, which forced the outer door of the safe, awakened people living near the bank, but they thought little of it. The second, half an hour later, shattered the inner door and then the citizens awakened to a realization of the fact that something was wrong.

CITY SCHOOLS VISITED TODAY

Committee Inspects Grounds, for Awarding Banners and Prizes—Decide Next Week.

Dr. L. L. Leslie, W. T. Sherer, C. P. Beers and Prof. Buell, who compose the committee appointed by the Twilight club to award the banner and prizes to the city school which made the best improvements of the grounds during the past summer, went on their tour of inspection this morning. At the meeting of the Twilight club the other evening, C. P. Beers, was appointed a member of the committee to take the place of J. L. Bostwick, who has gone on a southern trip. Professor Buell was asked to escort the gentlemen to the different schools and the tour of inspection started shortly after ten o'clock this morning and lasted two hours.

A prize of ten dollars will be given to the janitor who has kept the grounds in the best condition according to the judgment of the committee and a second prize of five dollars will be given to the janitor whose work shows the next best improvement. Five janitors will be eligible for these prizes. One of the best looking schools in the early summer was the Spring Brook school of learning. The many and varied flowerbeds surrounding the building afforded a pleasant contrast to the well kept lawn which was in almost perfect condition in June and July.

The committee did not come to any decision this morning but will meet again, probably early next week, and make their decisions.

LITERARY SOCIETY AT HIGH SCHOOL

Met Last Evening for First Time This Fall—School Orchestra Commence Practice.

The first meeting of the year of the Rusk Lyceum, the boys' literary society at the high school, was held last evening and a pleasing program was carried out. The interest in the organization is good this fall and the prospect of a successful year for the society is bright. It is expected that meetings will be held semi-monthly throughout the school year.

The high school orchestra has started in for the year's work and met in the early part of the week. There are now over a dozen members in the orchestra and the playing will come up to the high standard of last winter. The date for the first appearance of the organization is not definitely known but the boys may play at the meeting of the Rock County Teachers' association which will be held in November.

Rusty Nail in Foot: While Steven Welsh was working with the pile driving gang at the Ford mill yesterday, he ran a rusty nail through his shoe and into his foot. A doctor was consulted immediately who dressed the wound which soon became very painful. In a few hours swelling set in and blood poisoning is feared. Welch is unable to use his foot.

FOOTBALL TALK OF THE TEAMS

PENNSYLVANIA LOOKS BEST IN EAST AT PRESENT.

YALE SCORED ON YESTERDAY

Minnesota Game Will Be Played in Madison on Thanksgiving Day—Other Gossip.

Both Harvard and Yale had their goal lines crossed by inferior teams yesterday and while they won their games they showed very ragged playing. Perhaps, judging from comparative scores, it would be safe to say that Pennsylvania is by far the best this season. Yesterday Harvard defeated Wesleyan 17 to 0. Wesleyan has lost to Brown 11 to 0, Yale 33 to 0 and Holy Cross 11 to 0. Yale yesterday won from Holy Cross 36 to 10. Holy Cross lost to Dartmouth 18 to 0 and won from Wesleyan and the Harvard-Wesleyan games would give Yale the advantage slightly. Princeton Wednesday won from Lehigh by a score of 12 to 0, while Pennsylvania turned the trick a week ago by a score of 16 to 0. Then Pennsylvania ran up 72 counts on Gettysburg while Princeton made but 68. This gives Pennsylvania the decided advantage as far as dope goes. Unfortunately Pennsylvania does not meet Princeton or Yale so the championship of the year can only be approximately estimated. Should Harvard lose to Pennsylvania and then win from Yale and Yale beat Princeton it would be an easy matter to decide. Princeton is, however, thus far better than Yale and Yale than Harvard. Columbia is not considered a factor in the race although it yesterday beat Swarthmore 5 to 0. While Princeton tuned their lyre to 34 to 0 early in the season.

In the West
It is evidenced by yesterday's play that the western championship will be between Ann Arbor and Chicago. Both teams are playing easy teams but are making good sized scores with lots of substitutes in the line. Ann Arbor won from Ohio Normal 65 to 0 and Chicago played with Rush Medical making up a score of 40 to 0. Of course Illinois made 65 to 0 in their game with the Medics and yesterday piled up 51 to 0 on the Chicago Dentals while Northwestern was only able to score 15 to 11 some time ago. Illinois may be a factor but it is doubtful if it can do more than score against the Maroon team when the contest comes off.

May Protest
Wisconsin is not doing much more than very hard scrimmage work at home. It is also reported that Eckersell will be protested in the Wisconsin-Chicago game and that Mister Stag will insist that his star freshman play despite the rulings of the A. A. U. This may complicate matters and what will be done is not known. Minnesota is also struggling hard to bring the team into good condition and fast playing qualities are being rapidly developed.

Play in Madison
It has finally been decided to play the Minnesota-Wisconsin game in Madison. Milwaukee wanted it, gave good reasons and threatened to stop supporting the university if the game was not played in the Cream City but the athletic council have chosen Madison.

DECKER OUT OF DANGER—REMEMBERS NOTHING OF HURT

Condition Is Much Improved—He Wants to Return Home.

John Decker, who has been at the Palmer Memorial hospital since his encounter with the horse last Sunday, is now considered out of danger. He is in full possession of his powers and is desirous of returning home. It is not known how soon he will be able to leave the hospital, however, as it will be some time before he will be recovered from the effect of the blow he received from his horse while taking the animal to water. He remembers nothing as yet of the occurrence, or how it came about.

CHIEF OF POLICE HOGAN ON THE STREETS AGAIN

Appears None the Worse for the Severe Operation He Underwent.

Chief of Police Hogan was on the streets yesterday shaking hands with old friends. He has grown a beard since leaving Janesville, but otherwise looks none the worse for the severe ordeal through which he passed. The chief, through the newspapers, kept careful watch of all that was going on in Janesville and was anxious to return even sooner than the hospital authorities would permit.

ACCUSE FIREMAN OF MURDER

Railroad Man Is Arrested, Charged With Killing Kentuckian.

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 15.—Samuel Wilson, aged 26, a fireman on the Chicago & Alton railroad, was arrested here by the sheriff, charged with the murder of Henry Lebers of Richmond, Ky., last spring. Wilson came here six weeks ago from the south. The authorities say that he admits the crime, but claims self-defense.

ASSAILED BY A DRUNKEN FARMER

Fred Sheldon Struck Down on Refusal to Talk with Charles Brew, Last Night.

Fred Sheldon was the victim of a vicious assault in front of Jones' grocery store at 14½ past-six last evening. He was accosted by a stranger, evidently under the influence of drink, and upon refusing to converse with the fellow received a blow on the angle of the left jaw which felled him to the ground.

Assailant Arrested
Mr. Sheldon soon recovered himself and officers were immediately sent for. Besides a broken tooth and the shock of the blow, the injuries were not serious.

Was Young Farmer
The young man who committed this brutal assault was filled with shame and remorse when seen in his cell at the jail this morning. He gave his name as Charles Brew, and his home is at Blanchardville. He is a pleasant affable fellow when not his cups and has an honest face. Liquor was his undoing and he admits that he is not responsible when under its influence. Mr. Sheldon did not appear against him.

Worth Considering
Miss Hilda Peterson, the popular young lady clerk at Campbell's grocery, said to a friend recently that over a year ago she had Dr. Richards, dentist, place in her mouth some elegant bridge work. The work, she says, was done painlessly and has given her the very best of satisfaction in actual use. "Painless work," together with honest lasting qualities, are two features worth considering when one is debating what dentist to consult.

Fee Bill To Be Drawn Up, and Other Important Business Transacted.]

The Rock County Bar association will meet next Saturday afternoon and one of the important things to be considered is the formulating of a fee bill. This table will show definitely the minimum fee which may be charged for all services from the work of a notary, a marriage in the justice court to any legal work.

Election of Officers
As this is a regular meeting of the association, it is expected that there will be an election of officers for the coming year and other regular business of the law-interpreters.

Important Business
Notices of the meeting have been sent out, as usual, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance of the members. The need of a fee bill so that lawyers will be able to know definitely what the smallest legal amount is for any and all services is evident; and is well illustrated by an occurrence which happens frequently and recently occurred in a justice court, in this city, when a couple came in the office and the man told the justice that he wanted to be married for the very smallest fee that the judge could do the work for. He claimed he only had a dollar and looked the part, but asked if fifty cents wouldn't do.

SYNOPSIS.

PART I.—Three rogues, Hayle, Kitwater and Codd, meet at Singapore. Latter two have heard of existence of hidden treasure at Sengkor-Wat—old Burmese ruin near Chinese border. Hayle only half-believes account, but nevertheless agrees to join in search.

PART II.—Reaching Sengkor-Wat, the men make their way through the ancient streets and toward the once splendid palace. Toward dusk Hayle and Codd, while search they come upon secret entrance to underground vaults, in which are discovered great quantities of bar gold and uncut rubies and sapphires. Hayle and Codd, with hands with them and the men make their way outside again. On reaching camp they find two Burmese servants slain and horribly mutilated, Chinese fashion. During the night Hayle secures treasure and steals away into the jungle.

PART III.—Utterly exhausted and unconscious, Hayle is found by English officers near frontier station of Nampoung. As soon as he awakes he leaves for Hongkong and thence to England.

PART IV.—Two months later another officer at Nampoung, while out on a hunt comes across Kitwater and Codd. Kitwater explains they were traders who had put out his own eyes and pulled out Codd's tongue. After recovering somewhat from effects of exposure and tortures they set off in pursuit of Hayle to a most tedious search.

CHAPTER I.—George Fairfax relates how he became a detective in Australia and finally came to open up an office in London.

CHAPTER II.—Kitwater and Codd try to secure a new servant. They represent themselves as missionaries returned from China where a rich native patron turned over to them on his death a great fortune which was stolen by a Chinese (Hayle) at the mission. Fairfax almost concludes not to take case.

CHAPTER III.—Miss Kitwater calls on Fairfax in behalf of her uncle and succeeds in persuading him to take up the case. Later in the day a stranger, who calls himself Edward Hayle, of the Santa Cruz Mining Company, seeks to get Fairfax to go to Argentina to shadow mine manager who is suspected of embezzlement. Detective replies he now has case on which will engage him for some time. Fairfax at a leading jeweler's learns that he usually does not meet anyone who has been recently robbed, and gets description of man of whom they were sought.

CHAPTER IV.—One evening Fairfax finds himself followed by two ruffians, but manages to elude them. Suspecting they will repeat performance he goes forth the next night, but with one of his most powerful men but a little behind. Finding that he is indeed followed, Fairfax turns into a dark street and turns about and confronts ruffians who confess they have been hired to brain him. Finding where they were to meet their principal detective goes in their place to keep appointment. He conceals himself and is much surprised to see Mr. Bayley approach.

CHAPTER V.—From the managing director of the Santa Cruz Mining Company Fairfax learns there is no Bayley in their employ. The director, however, remembers a former clerk who answers to the description given by the detective; his name was Gideon Hayle. That same day by accident Fairfax almost comes upon Hayle, but the latter escapes into a cab. Fairfax follows in close pursuit. After a long chase the forward cab comes to a stop, but it is empty.

CHAPTER VI.—After many persistent inquiries Fairfax locates Hayle in Port Wellington hotel, but misses finding him in only a few minutes. Subordinate detectives are located at the various stations, and one of them, Dickson, manages to trace Hayle to Paris.

CHAPTER VII.—Fairfax takes advantage of necessary delay to spend Sunday at the Kitwater home, and becomes very much impressed with the charms of Miss Kitwater. He learns that it is she upon whom Kitwater is drawing for funds for the pursuit of Hayle.

CHAPTER VIII.—(Continued.) she said. "But, if you will let me say so, yours must be a very trying life, and also an extremely dangerous one. I am afraid you must look upon human nature from a very strange point of view!"

"Not more strange probably than you do," I answered. "But you are continually seeing the saddest side of it. To you all the miseries that a life of crime entails are visible. The greater part of your time is spent among desperate men who are without hope, and to whom even their own shadows are a constant menace. I wonder that you still manage to retain your kind heart."

"But how do you know that my heart is kind?" I inquired. "If for no other reason, simply because you have taken up my uncle's case," she answered. "Do you think when he was so rude to you just now, that I could not see that you pined him, and for that reason you forebore to take advantage of your power? I know you have a kind heart."

"And you find it difficult to assimilate that kind heart with the remorseless detective of Pacific life?" "I find it difficult to recognize in you the man who, on a certain notable occasion, went into a thieves' den in Chicago unaccompanied, and after a terrible struggle in which you nearly lost your life succeeded in effecting the arrest of a notorious murderer." At that moment the gong in the hall sounded for lunch, and I was by no means sorry for the interruption. We found Kitwater and Codd awaiting our coming in the dining-room, and we thereupon sat down to the meal. When we left the room again, we sat in the garden and smoked, and later in the afternoon my hostess conducted me over her estate, showed me her vineyards, introduced me to her two sleek Jerseys, who had their home in the meadow I had seen from the window; to her poultry, pigs and the pigeons who came fluttering about her, confident that they would come to no harm. Meanwhile her uncle had been running his restless pining up and down the path on which I had first seen him. Codd had returned to his archaeological studies, and I was alone with Miss Kitwater. We were standing alone together, I remember, at the gate that separated the garden from the meadow-land. I knew as well as possible, indeed I had known it since we had met in the churchyard that morning, that she had something to say to me, something concerning which she had not quite made up her mind. What it was, however, I fancied I could hazard a very good guess, but I was determined not to forestall her, but to wait and let her broach it to me in her own way. This, I fancied, she was now about to do.

"Mr. Fairfax," she began, resting her clasped hands upon the bar of the gate as she spoke, "I want, if you will allow me, to have a serious talk with you. I could not have a better opportunity than the present, and, such as it is, I want to make the best of it."

"I am quite at your service, Miss Kitwater," I replied, "and if I can be of any use to you I hope you will tell me. Pray tell me know what I can do for you?"

"It is about my uncle and Mr. Codd that I want to speak to you," she said, sinking her voice a little, as if she were afraid they might hear. "And what about them?"

"I want to be loyal to them, and yet I want to know what you think of the whole affair," she said, looking intently at me as she spoke. "Believe me, I have good and sufficient reasons for my request."

"I am to tell exactly what I think about their pursuit of this man Hayle? And what chances of success I think they possess?" I said.

"I am not thinking so much of their success," she returned, "as of the real nature of their case."

"I believe I understand what is passing in your mind," I said. "Indeed I should not be surprised if the suspicion you entertain is not the same as I have myself."

"You have been suspicious, then?" "I could scarcely fail to be," I replied.

"Perhaps you will tell me what you suspect?"

"Will you forgive me, in my turn, if I am abrupt, or if I speak my mind a little too plainly?"

"You could not do that," she answered with a sigh. "I want to know your exact thoughts, and then I shall be able to form my own conclusions."

"Well," I said, "before I begin, may I put one or two questions to you? You will, of course, remember that I had never seen or heard of your uncle and Mr. Codd until they stopped me on Ludgate Hill. They were and practically are strangers to me. I have heard their story of their treasure, but I have not heard what anyone else has to say upon the subject."

"I think I understand. Now what are your questions?"

"In the first place, did your late father ever speak to you of his brother as being a missionary in China?" She shook her head, and from the look upon her face I could see that I had touched upon something painful. This, at least, was one of the things that had struck her as suspicious.

"If he were a missionary, I am quite sure my father did not know it," she said. "In fact I always understood that he was somewhat of a scapgrace, and in consequence could never settle down to anything. That is your first, now what is your second question, Mr. Fairfax?"

I paused for a moment before I replied.

"My second partakes more of the nature of an assertion than a question," I answered. "As I read it, you are more afraid of what may happen should the two men meet than anything else."

"Yes, that is just what I am afraid of," she replied. "My uncle's temper is so violent, and his desire for revenge so absorbing, that I dare not think what would happen if he came into actual contact with Hayle. Now that I have given to your questions, will you give me the answer I want? That is to say will you tell me what you think of the whole affair?"

"If you wish it, I will," I said, slowly. "You have promised to permit me to be candid, and I am going to take advantage of that permission. In my own mind I do not believe the story they tell. I do not believe that they were ever missionaries, though we have convincing proofs that they have been in the hands of the Chinese. That Hayle betrayed them I have not the least doubt, it seems consistent with his character, but where they obtained the jewels, that are practically the keystones to the whole affair, I have no more notion than you. They may have been honestly come by, or they may not. So far as the present case is concerned that fact is immaterial. There is still, however, one vital point we have to consider. If the gems in question belong equally to the three men, each is entitled to his proper share, either of the stones or of the amounts realized by the sale. That share, as you already know, would amount to a considerable sum of money. Your uncle, I take it, has not a penny-piece in the world, and his companion is in the same destitute condition. Now we will suppose that I find Hayle for them, and they meet. Does it not seem to you quite possible that your uncle's rage might lead him to do something desperate, in order to revenge himself upon the other? But if he could command himself he would probably get his money? If, on the other hand, they do not meet, then what is to be done? Forgive me, Miss Kitwater, for prying into your private affairs, but in my opinion it is manifestly unfair that you should have to support these two men for the rest of their existences."

"You surely must see that I would rather do that than let my father's brother commit a crime," she returned, more earnestly than she had yet spoken.

GROVER CLEVELAND

TALKS TO MERCHANTS

Former President Is Guest of Commercial Club of Chicago, Whose Members Applaud Him.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Former President Grover Cleveland, the nation's first private citizen, addressed 150 members and guests of the Commercial club. The gathering represented more than $300,000,000, the money power of Chicago. Mr. Cleveland's address was made at a banquet given by that organization at the Auditorium hotel. His speech was a plea for civic duty, for conservatism in the industrial and labor worlds and for patriotism un-mixed with selfishness or sloth. His topic was "American Good Citizenship."

Mr. Cleveland avoided politics with religious care, as did President Martin A. Ryerson in his introductory remarks. The former chief executive of the nation said he understood that he was under bonds to keep the peace by eschewing politics, and hoped that he could keep his bond, and thus avoid disturbing those most suspicious of his conduct.

And yet he was not content to allow the subject in its broader sense to pass unnoticed.

"It is time," he said, "that there should be an end of self-satisfied gratification, or pretense of virtue. In the phrase, 'I am not a politician,' and it is time to forbid the prostitution of the word to a sinister use."

"Every citizen should be politician enough to bring himself within the true meaning of the term, as one who concerns himself with the regulation or government of a nation or state, for the preservation of its safety, peace and prosperity. This is politics in its best sense, and this is good citizenship."

Applause frequently interrupted his discourse. This was confined to clapping of the hands. There was no cheering, except when he entered the room. Although he read his speech, his delivery was forceful, at times almost explosive. His sentences were somewhat involved, but he used few long words. He articulated clearly, and his voice penetrated every corner of the large banquet hall. From his first word to his last he showed poise and complete mastery of his subject.

Mr. Cleveland assured his hearers that the nation's march of prosperity was not the secure thing the optimist would have them believe. "The abandonment of our country's watch towers by those who should be on guard, and the slumber of the sentinels who should never sleep, directly invite the stealthy approach and the pillage and the loot of the forces of selfishness and greed," he told them. And that his words found place in their convictions was evidenced by the applause that greeted them.

He declared that the government of the United States was made by and for patriotic, unselfish sober-minded people, that it was suited to such people. He added that for those who are selfish, corrupt and unpatriotic it was the worst government on earth.

JURY TOSSES COINS TO DECIDE

Arouses Ire of Judge, Who Orders Retrial of Case.

Vincennes, Ind., Oct. 15.—A sensation developed in the Circuit court at Vincennesville, seven miles west of Vincennes, when Judge Newlin called the jury in the case of the State of Illinois versus George L. Ryan and administered a severe reprimand, charging them with unlawful conduct and disregard of duty and discharged them. Ryan was charged with assault, and the jury, unable to get a verdict after being out thirty hours, decided it is alleged, to toss coins for a decision. On the second throw the nickels turned 8 to 4 for acquittal, and a verdict accordingly was returned to court. The Ryan case will be retried, and the offending jurors may be prosecuted.

BANDITS ESCAPE AFTER FIGHT

Gang Swoops Down on Ohio Town and Loots Postoffice Safe.

Lima, Oh., Oct. 15.—At 2 o'clock in the morning a band of eight men drove into the little town of Columbus Grove, north of this city, broke into the postoffice, blew open the safe, secured about $100 in stamps and money and escaped. There was an exchange of shots between the night watchman and others and it is thought that one of the robbers was wounded. It is not known how the bandits left town.

DOWIE BUYS LAND IN DAKOTA

LABOR DEMANDS

REFUSE TO HEED WARNING

Delegates Decline to Listen to Argument of David Ross, Who Contends That the Present Time is Inopportune for Radical Action.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 15.—By an overwhelming vote the convention of the State Federation of Labor declared for the "closed" as against the "open" shop. This was in spite of the fact that David Ross, secretary of the state board of labor statistics, led the fight for the "open" shop.

Then, to make things more emphatic, the convention instructed its delegates to the American Federation of Labor to advocate a resolution which would throw the union to which Ross belongs and which he represents in this gathering out of the federation altogether.

Favor Closed Shops.

The "closed" shop debate came up in the report of the committee on resolutions, recommending that a resolution declaring for "closed" shops and blaming the existence of such "open" ones as the government printing office at Washington to the compliance of certain of the labor leaders, be placed on file. This was done and then in the afternoon the committee reported as a substitute the report of the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor in the Miller case in the government printing office, which is declarative in favor of "closed" and against "open" shops.

Ross Gives Warning.
David Ross was on his feet at once, combating the resolution. "Trades unions are voluntary associations," said he, "and men must be won to them by persuasion. The welfare of all trades unions is bound up in this question. They cannot afford to adopt a war policy."

"This resolution means force. It means coercion. My friends, be careful. Unless you look out trouble is ahead. Now, when the market conditions are not the best, is not the time to raise this question. Better to continue as we are. We represent but a small percentage of those engaged in industrial employment, less than 2,000,000 out of 20,000,000."

A motion to postpone further consideration of the question was crushed instantly by the friends of the resolution, who insisted on settling the matter at once, and speech after speech was made by the "closed" shop advocates.

Daniel Furman of Chicago tried to explain that Ross was not opposed to the closed shop, but thought this was the wrong time to urge it. But the convention would not listen and the resolution favoring the closed shops was passed by a practically unanimous vote, only four or five faint noes being heard when the negative was called for.

Would Exclude Bosses.

Following this came in a resolution excluding from the meeting all representatives of unions composed of "bosses, contractors," or members of employers' associations. This was aimed at the Mine Managers' union, which Ross represents, and is composed of what are known as the "bit bosses" in the coal mines. Ross being such a boss before he got his present place on the state pay roll. Chairman Ryan of the committee on resolutions explained that the convention could do nothing with the resolution as long as the American federation, the higher body, granted charters to such unions, and the convention instructed the Illinois delegate to the American federation to press on it a resolution depriving such unions of these charters and refusing any new ones.

Farming in Alaska.

Large sections of Alaska are suited for farming and gardening. Such crops as oats, wheat, rye, barley and flax have been raised and vegetables—potatoes, turnips, beets, peas, celery, etc., grow in abundance.

FATAL CASES.

A PUBLIC DANGER AND WHY CARE SHOULD BE TAKEN.

Your attention has not been called to this public danger for some time and we believe it is our duty to inform the people that the majority of fatal pneumonia cases are caused by the patient taking for a cold some so-called "cough cure" or "balm" which depend upon poisonous drugs for their effect.

These drugs deaden the nerves and stop secretion along the breathing tract, which is always followed by congestion and inflammation—that causes pneumonia.

Without these injurious drugs, Father John's Medicine cures cold, long standing coughs and all throat and lung troubles. It is not a patent medicine or "cough syrup" but a body builder and tonic; it cures colds by soothing and healing the throat, and nourishes the system at the same time. Its gentle laxative effect strengthens the stomach and corrects the digestion, so that each organ of the body is able to properly perform its work—that is how the poisonous waste matter and impurities are driven out of the system. Its food elements make strength and restore to sound health those who are weak and run down. Father John's Medicine is for sale at the Balzer Drug Co., Corner of West Milwaukee and South River Streets.

Notes of the Railroads
President Charles W. Drake of the Baita and Hammondspoor Railroad company said yesterday that the road had been sold to the Erie. The line is ten miles long and runs from Bath to Hammondspoor, N. Y.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Chicago Terminal Transfer Railroad company was held yesterday. The following directors were elected to fill vacancies: Myles Tierney, W. V. S. Thorne, Silas H. Strawn.

Traffic in the middle west has reached such proportions that the railroads are unable to handle the demands for transportation facilities. The Burlington has ordered twenty new locomotives for use in the west and reports from Omaha indicate that the officials of that road are facing a crisis in their efforts to move stock and grain.

The board of directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad company has accepted the resignation of General Isaac Wistar, vice president of the Pennsylvania Coal company, which is owned by the former company. Morris Williams, general manager of the Pennsylvania Coal company, was elected president, the vice presidency being left vacant.

As a result of the death of General Superintendent Collins of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, the following changes have been made: E. M. Alvord, general superintendent of the Texas lines, transferred from Dallas to St. Louis, to be general superintendent of lines north to Denver; T. S. McDowell, superintendent of the Cherokee division, promoted to succeed Mr. Alvord at Dallas; J. W. Walton, superintendent of the Choctaw division, transferred to Parsons to take Mr. McDowell's place; R. J. Sullivan, trainmaster under Superintendent C. L. Harris at Denison, promoted to superintendent of the Choctaw division.

BANKRUPTCY LAW IS DISLIKED

Nebraska Bankers to Ask Legislators to Work for Its Repeal.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 15.—The members of the Nebraska State Bankers' association voted almost unanimously in favor of the repeal of the present bankruptcy law and a resolution asking the senators and congressmen from this state to work to that end was adopted. The bankers concluded their convention with a banquet at which Chancellor Andrews of the University of Nebraska delivered the principal address. At the business meeting it was voted to make an appropriation of $1,000 immediately available for the capture and prosecution of the bank robbers. J. T. Treney of Pawnee City was elected president.

PRELATE'S FUNERAL SERVICES

Cardinal Gibbons to Preside at Ceremonies Over Archbishop Kain.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 15.—The funeral services over the remains of Most Rev. J. J. Kain, archbishop of St. Louis, who died in Baltimore, will be held Wednesday next at 10 o'clock in the old cathedral. Cardinal Gibbons will celebrate pontifical high mass and Archbishop J. J. Keane of Dubuque, Iowa, has been asked to preach the sermon. Twelve priests were selected to go to Baltimore and escort the body of Archbishop Kain to this city. Discussion is already rife over Archbishop Kain's successor and the name of Right Rev. John J. Glennon, bishop of Kansas City, is prominently mentioned. His nomination would be popular.

TROUBLE IN THE JEWISH TOWNS

Vitebsk, Dvinsk and Alexandropol, Russia, Need Protection.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 15.—The towns of Vitebsk and Dvinsk, with the surrounding districts in the government of Vitebsk, and the town of Alexandropol in the government of Erivan, have been proclaimed in "a state requiring increased protection." Half of the population of Vitebsk is Jewish, while most of the inhabitants of Alexandropol are Armenian.

To Break Miners' Strike.

Cripple Creek, Colo., Oct. 15.—Eighty-two miners arrived from Colorado and will take the places of strikers in the mines of this district. There was a large crowd at the Victor station when the new miners alighted from the cars, but no demonstration was made.

Failure in Wall Street.

New York, Oct. 15.—The suspension of John C. Killebrew, with offices at 49 Wall street, has just been announced on the Stock Exchange. He was admitted to membership Nov. 29, 1882. The failure is a small affair.

Golet Wedding Nov. 16.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 15.—It has been authoritatively announced that the wedding of Miss May Golet to the Duke of Roxburgh will take place Nov. 16, but whether at New York or Newport remains to be decided upon.

Saddle Strong, San Francisco.—I had an awful pimply and blotched face. Friends hardly know me since taking Rocky Mountain Tea. Am fair and rosy." 25 cents. Smith's Pharmacy.

WEALTH IN LITTLE THINGS.

Great Fortunes Have Been Built Up On Small Inventions—"U-Pin-It" Hook and Eye Has Many Points of Merit Which Attest Its Superiority.

It has become almost an axiom with the majority that larger fortunes are to be made from some simple invention than from complex and expensive devices which involve a great outlay of time, money and energy to manufacture and place on the market. To a large extent this is true. Ideas are the most lucrative commodities in the world, provided you carry them to the right market. If your brain has worked out a scheme that is of practical benefit, somebody will want it and will pay money for it. In numerous cases manufacturers have honestly paid inventors not for anything so tangible as a patent or a model, but just for a suggestion that could be materialized.

There is always a fortune waiting for the man or woman who can invent something the world wants, and in this field—the great field of invention—in which more Americans have distinguished themselves than in any other direction, there is always room for the newcomer. Once in a while a public necessity becomes so apparent that dozens or even hundreds of inventors will find themselves working simultaneously on the same problem.

A certain patent for fastening kid gloves yielded a fortune of several hundred thousand dollars to its fortunate owner. The inventor of a collar clasp enjoys $20,000 royalty a year as a reward for his cleverness. A new kind of sleeve button made $50,000 in five years for its patentee. The simple twisting of safety pins in such a way that there is no possible danger of the point sticking the child enriched the man who first worked out the idea far beyond his early dreams of wealth. One day a man twisted a piece of wire so as to hold a cork more securely in a bottle, and the wire stopper holder is now used annually on millions of bottles.

As a matter of fact, instances of large fortunes being made from small inventions could be multiplied almost indefinitely. The accidental bending of a hair pin to prevent it from slipping out of her hair easily produced a fortune for a woman's husband who immediately saw the possibilities of a crinkled hairpin for women. It is said that the manufacturers of a certain hook and eye now on the market have made over $1,000,000.00 in the last five years.

Among the latest notable successes along this line is the "U-Pin-It" hook and eye. In the way of little things, the "U-Pin-It" hook and eye certainly is one of the greatest inventions of the new century and is certain to revolutionize the hook and eye industry.

It is the only patented hook and eye that does away with sewing, both the hook and the eye parts being fastened in the cloth by a double clasp pin in such a way as to make it perfectly secure, without danger of tearing the cloth, while the pin points are so protected that they cannot prick the fingers. If desirable, it can be sewed on the garment, but by pinning it has the advantage of being adjustable and can be removed in the case of washable garments. It is the only article of its kind adapted to such use; as it will not leave rust stains in the fabric. It is highly ornamental in appearance, and can be used anywhere "to make both ends meet." It is sure to supplant all old fashioned hooks and eyes. In gold plated form it is very desirable for pocket fasteners. In short, its points of superiority and usefulness are numerous and readily recognized. It is adapted to the uses of large shirt waist manufacturers, workmen's overalls and children's clothing. The large size of this hook and eye are the best fastenings for horse blankets in the trade. The recent changes in the uniform of the U. S. army and navy require hooks and eyes as fasteners. For the new khaki coats for the army and navy, an "emergency" fastener where needles and thread are not obtainable, is a great necessity for both officers and enlisted men and this article will meet that requirement.

The large field for the unlimited uses of this hook and eye readily suggests the great possibilities and large profits to be made by the manufacturing of this little invention.

Delay Alaska Decision.

London, Oct. 15.—The Alaska boundary tribunal has adjourned until Friday. The commissioners are awaiting a map showing the profile of the coast which they have requested Messrs. Titman and Kiaz, the American and Canadian map experts, to draw up together.

Kruger's Birthday.

Paris, Oct. 15.—President Kruger has celebrated his 78th birthday with a small family tea, the first since the war. Ex-President Steyn and his family are living in a modest villa near Capetown. He suffers from paralysis of the limbs and is condemned to absolute rest.

Filipino Leader Surrenders.

Manila, Oct. 15.—Larado Toledo, the insurrectionist, who has been operating in Albay for some time past, has surrendered with thirty of his men and ten guns. The only band now operating in the province of Albay is that commanded by Saria, possessing, it is believed, some ten guns.

GOVERNOR TAFT FIGHTS UNIONS

Tyographical Committee's Demands in Manila Will Be Opposed.

Manila, Oct. 15.—Gov. Taft has wired the war department that he will resist the demands of the typographical union committee appointed to investigate the charge that George Tracy was dismissed from the foremanship of the insular printing bureau for promoting the formation of the union. He reported that the evidence submitted shows that the action of the public printer was impelled by the failure of Tracy to fulfill the obligation assumed at the time of his appointment and also shows his neglect of the duty involved by the obligation mentioned to teach the Filipinos the printing trade.

WHEN TO INVEST YOUR SAVINGS.

Recently E. D. Roath, an eccentric millionaire, who had lived for a number of years at the Transient House, Union Stock Yards, Chicago, visited his old home in Massachusetts, and while there, gave to his relatives $1,000,000.00 for as he said, he wanted to see what they would do with it. Some of the recipients of this great fortune asked his advice as to how they should invest it; his reply: "Do what you like with it," was plain and to the point, for he did actually want to see what they would do with the gift.

However, when a special representative of the New York Journal was sent to interview this gentleman, he asked him what people of small savings should invest in, his reply was different. He said: "INVEST IN SOMETHING TO EAT." Of course, Mr. Roath made his fortune in buying and selling live stock at the Union Stock Yards. This may be good advice, but if some people were to invest in something to eat as a dividend paying investment, they certainly would EAT SO MUCH TO INCREASE THEIR PROFITS it would make them poor, or else they would have INDIGESTION SO BADLY it would be necessary to SPEND ALL THEIR PROFITS in trying to aid INDIGESTION. This is, possibly, why the groceryman and druggist live side by side and prosper.

Invest Your Savings At Home In Something Staple or Tangible.

Before investing satisfy yourself that

1. The person or firm with whom you are placing your money is thoroughly honest.
2. The manager of the business has the ability and push to make any reasonable undertaking A SUCCESS.
3. The commodity or article manufactured is a necessity and staple, and has an unlimited field.

Good Investments Are Made Only Through Opportunities.

If you have an opportunity to invest in something entirely new, which is likely to revolutionize trade; something that is patented and thoroughly protected from competition; something that every one, either men or women, will use; something you can see, and, at the same time, know where your money is, you will do well to invest all your spare money in such an enterprise.

Opportunities to make good investments at home where you actually know your money is being used for legitimate purposes are very few. To those who have only a few hundred saved up, the interest paid by savings banks does not help a great deal—again if you loan it out you stand a chance to lose, if you do not employ an attorney to look after it for you, and by the time you pay his fee for doing this, or for making the loan for you, you have but little left, and to the small investor it is the little here and there that counts.

But whatever you do, don't invest your savings in mining, oil, plantation or "stock job"ing schemes" which are away from home and where you have only one chance in 10,000 to get any returns. You know nothing about them, and your money once gone is like the stranger going to that place from whence no one ever returns. You had far better give your money to the sick or poor, or to some charitable institution or benevolent association from which some real good may come of it.
